

Living for learning; learning for life.

Dear Parents/Carers,

This week has been a busy week in school, well done to our Football Team who won the Morland Cup last night. Forest school has begun and the advertisement for school council members has been placed. The school is a real BUZZ of activity!

Invite

I would like to invite all parents to attend the 'meet and greet' informal meeting to meet me in person (Mrs. Slack), where I will be available to answer any questions, for you all to see the developments in Early Years, share my vision for Temple Sowerby and even share a piece of cake on 21st October, from 3.30-4.15. I can't wait to meet you all!

Social Media – Facebook

Many local schools are reviewing their social media platforms in light of Ai and as a parent myself I love seeing what my child has been doing in school, so we have already made some adjustments to provide safety to our children but to also still share the wonderful experiences that the children encounter, whilst in school. We will follow the following rules:

- no individual images of children will be shared
- no forward facing images of children, so you will see many images of the backs of pupils accompanied by the work/experience.

Reading – we strive for 5!

All children have been provided with a school reading book over the last week and eager to share their progress with you at home – from those early phonic developments to the fluency of reading. Pupils are encouraged to read daily at home, sharing with a sibling or family member. Every time a child reads at home, they EARN A HOUSE POINT for their house team!

School Council

This week saw the advertisements for the role of school council (Year 2 – Year 6) and already the application forms are flying out! The children are eager to share ideas, plan activities and help make improvements in school. Is your child applying for the role of school council?

Application closing date: 29th September Interviews: 2nd October

Good luck everyone!

Vision and Values homework

It is lovely to see the variety of homework options coming into school daily. We will be making this into a display to share with the whole school. You still have time to complete your creative masterpiece. Homework due by 25th September.
